

Jared has been trying to put his life back together after an accident and has come to see his son.

Amanda: What are you doing here, Jared? Have you been drinking?

Jared: Of course I haven't had a drink. Why is that the first thing you say? You know I've got a new job and I'm doing everything I can to get back on my feet again. Why can't you accept that people can change?

Amanda: We're not talking about people. We're talking about you.

Jared: Amanda, I made a horrible mistake. I drove drunk and nearly killed someone. You don't just get over that. I needed time. I needed you.

Amanda: I was right here.

Jared: Yeah, judging me just like everyone else. Look, I didn't come here to fight. And I'm sorry I came without calling. I just wanted to see Jason.

Amanda: We have to set some rules first.

Jared: Rules? What rules? Come on, Amanda! Just tell me what rules I need to follow so I can see my son on his birthday.
