

Valentine's Day Rules

Well it's almost that time of year again.

Valentine's Day is almost here, and my teacher is going to once again FORCE me to write a Valentine's Day card to everyone in my class.

I understand that they don't want anyone to get their feelings hurt, but why do I have to write a Valentine's Day card to the kid who pushed me down at recess and made fun of me?

And am I supposed to really believe that when they give me a card that they REALLY want to be my Valentine? My older sister thinks that this is where kids first learn to lie about their feelings in a relationship.

She said it helps us prepare for marriage... (Shrugs shoulders)

Whatever THAT means!